Description: B-1 series mercenary sentry droids were a variant of B1-series battle droid that existed in the galaxy by the early New Republic Era. A number of these B1 units were members of the Droid Gotra. After the Gotra was hired to provide protection for the Twins, a number of these mercenary droids patrolled the Twins' palace with their gotra comrades. During the Battle of Nal Hutta, several ran past a series of hangar blast doors as they opened and HH-87 Starhopper starfighters launched from them, and several were destroyed when one of the fighters later crashed and exploded.

The mercenary sentry droids' weathered plating was a mixture of colors, including blue, orange, yellow, and dark green, but was predominantly bone white. Many B-1s wore tattered capes.
