Description: Vicrul's scythe was the primary melee weapon of Knight of Ren Vicrul. It had a ultrasonic vibro-tech settings that increased the lethality such that even glancing blows could produce deadly lacerations. It was made of tempered steel impregnated with phrik filaments, making it incredibly strong. Though a lightsaber blade could cut through the weapon, it required a greater application of pressure to do so. The scythe was used during the Knights of Ren alliance with Crimson Dawn, and later against Ben Solo in the Sith Citadel during the battle of Exegol.
