Description: The Farbang Blaster Grenade is a finned grenade with a small drive in its tail. It is placed over the muzzle of a blaster, which is then fired on stun powering the grenades drive enabling it to achieve far superior range compared to a thrown grenade. This weapon only works however on blasters which have small enough barrels for the grenade to fit around them, and thus has been only a limited success. However, for those that can use it, the Farbang can be really handy in a situation where you can't get close enough to use a hand grenade, thus generating enough sales for Merr-Sonn to continue producing the weapon.
