Weapons D6 / Tehkla blade

Name: Tehk'la blade
Model: Custom-made weapon
Type: Melee weapon
Culture: Nagai
Cost: 8,500 credits
Shape: Similar to vibrodagger
Size: Hand-held
Weight: 0,5 kg
Scale: Character
Skill: Melee combat: Tehk'la blade
Availability: 2, R
Difficulty: Moderate
Damage: Str+1D+1 Physical

Description: Tehk'la blades, also known as Tehk'lka blades were handheld melee weapons used throughout Nagai society.

Tehk'la blades were similar in design to vibrodaggers and featured both a serrated edge and vibration generators to aggravate damage when withdrawn from a wound. Additionally, the blade was well balanced, capable of being used with the off hand by those who were capable of using two weapons simultaneously. The balanced blade also made it a useful throwing knife. These weapons were not simply used to battle opponents but to cripple them upon victory.

Tehk'la blades were individually crafted for the owner of the weapon, and often they were crafted by the owner himself. During the period of the Mandalorian Wars, many were made with cortosis weave as was common with vibroblades in the Old Republic. Some Twi'lek assassins used them for weapons.

Nagai brothers Vor Essen and Kor Essen knew how to make Tehk’la blades. When they were captured by Chevin slaver Phylus Mon around 20 BBY, they would try to bribe any would-be rescuers for help to escape by crafting them specially-made Tehk’la blades.

Nagai military leader Ozrei N'takkilomandrife was a proficient user of the Tehk’la blade. Wookiees that he befriended on Kashyyyk were unable to pronounce his name, so they took to calling him "Knife" in Shyriiwook for his skills with his Tehk'la blade.

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from Wookieepedia
Image copyright LucasArts.
Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.