Primary language(s): Galactic Basic Standard, Wroonian
Population: 1.4 billion

Description: Saleucami was a planet located in the Saleucami system, within the Suolriep sector of the galaxy's Outer Rim Territories. Its name meant "oasis." During the Clone Wars, its inhabitants wished to stay out of the conflict, though war would eventually reach the backwater planet. Although Republic forces were able to drive the Separatists from Saleucami, it became the site of an invasion and one of the final battles of the war. Jedi Master Stass Allie was killed on her BARC speeder bike by Commander Neyo at the start of the Great Jedi Purge. It was the homeworld of Sergeant Warda Gojun of the Galactic Empire's 71st GAV Battalion.

Saleucami was a temperate world with a mix of environments including arid deserts and swamps.

History
Clone Wars
During the Clone Wars, clone trooper Cut Lawquane and his gunship crashed on Saleucami. There, Cut deserted from the Grand Army of the Republic when the battle droids executed his fellow troopers and fled. Cut then married Suu Lawquane, made a home for them and her two children there.

Confederate General Grievous and his fleet went to Saleucami along with his prisoner, Jedi Master Eeth Koth. There, Grievous awaited the arrival of Jedi Generals Obi-Wan Kenobi and Anakin Skywalker. While Kenobi fought Grievous, Skywalker and Adi Gallia rescued Koth from Grievous's Recusant-class light destroyer. Despite Skywalker and Gallia rescuing Koth, Grievous was able to escape from his duel with Kenobi. Grievous and his forces then attempted to land, but debris from Kenobi's light cruiser caused him and his battle droids to crash-land in Saleucami's wetlands aboard escape pods.

Grievous and what remained of his forces then regrouped and searched for intact escape pods. Kenobi landed several detachments of the 212th Battalion and 501st Legion to find Grievous. While Kenobi and Cody took the AT-TEs to find the escape pods, Rex and his men then took their BARC speeders through the wetlands. They then came under attack by two droid commando snipers. Rex was badly wounded and his men had to leave at the Lawquane farmstead. It was there Rex met Cut and believed that he should turn him in for desertion. However, when Cut's family and home came under attack by droid commandos, Rex decided to leave him with his family. Kenobi on the other hand, was unable to capture Grievous when he found an escape pod and made his escape. At some point, the enhanced clones of Clone Force 99—Hunter, Wrecker, CT-9904 "Crosshair," and Tech—visited Lawquane.

The B1-series battle droid R0-GR was also involved in the battle, which he recalled as causing five agonizing months. Later during the war, the Separatists launched an invasion of Saleucami, which the smuggler Has Obitt narrowly missed. A world nominally under the Confederacy's control, it was nevertheless valuable to the Separatists, making Supreme Chancellor Sheev Palpatine dub it a part of the Triad of Evil. When the Siege of Saleucami occurred during the Outer Rim Sieges, the lengthy campaign resulted in a Republic victory towards the end of the war. When Darth Sidious initiated Order 66, Clone Commander Neyo killed Jedi Master Stass Allie while they patrolled the planet on BARC speeders.

Imperial rule
Shortly after the Empire formed, even after the war itself had finished, the clone troopers remained on Saleucami instead of pulling out, enforcing the control of the newly-established Galactic Empire, with citizens finding themselves forced to register for chain codes and had their starships taken away by impound vessels. In order to get offworld on a ship, citizens needed to register for a chain code.

Around the same time, Rex visited Lawquane to tell him what had happened. As the Imperial Military began to lock down Saleucami, Lawquane planned to move his family off of the planet before he was discovered as a defector. The day after Rex departed, Clone Force 99 arrived. Introducing Cut to their new companions, CT-1409 "Echo" and Omega, Hunter wanted to learn how Cut had stayed hidden so well, as his squad were fugitives. However, their mission quickly turned into helping the family escape the planet before they were discovered.

Places of Interest
Saleucami town
Saleucami town was a spaceport town that existed on the planet Saleucami at the beginning of the Imperial Era. Controlled by the Galactic Empire, it contained an impound lot used by Imperial forces to hold seized starships. Two Imperial Informational Stations had been set up in the town for security, one at the spaceport and the other at the impound lot.

Saleucami impound dock
An impound dock was located in a spaceport town on the planet Saleucami at the beginning of the Imperial Era. Controlled by the Galactic Empire, impounded starships were brought to the lot, where they were secured with magnetic boots for later verification of their signatures. Tech and Echo of the fugitive Clone Force 99 intentionally had their shuttle, the Havoc Marauder, impounded at the lot as part of a plan to forge the Lawquanes chain codes so they could leave Saleucami, which resulted in a firefight between the squad and Imperial clone troopers.

Cut Lawquane's farmstead
The farmstead of Cut Lawquane was a farm located on the Outer Rim planet of Saleucami within the world's wetland region. After he deserted the Grand Army of the Republic, Cut, his wife Suu, and his adopted children Shaeeah and Jek, lived on the farm until they left Saleucami shortly after the rise of the Galactic Empire.

The farm comprised of at least two fields with a perimeter fence that deterred predators, the main house, which was two stories tall, as well as a barn complete with stables for eopies.
