

Creatures D6 / Shaak (Edible Herbivore)

Name: Shaak
Designation: Non-sentient
Classification: Mammal
Average height: 1.80 meters
Skin color: Brown
Distinctions: Four legs, plumb body
Homeworld: Naboo
Habitat: Grasslands
Diet: Herbivore

DEXTERITY 1D
PERCEPTION 1D
STRENGTH 3D

Move: 8
Orneriness: 1D

Description: Shaaks were a bulbous mammalian species of non-sentient herbivores that grazed on the grasslands of Naboo. Gentle and non-threatening, shaaks were slow movers. They had four legs, brown leathery skin, and their bodies were plump with blubber. Shaaks were unable to swim, due to their size, and so avoided the swamps of Naboo. If infected with the waterborne Blue Shadow Virus, shaaks would die instantly, while members of most other species had 48 hours to live before the virus became fatal.

Gungans farmed shaaks for their meat and hide. They were sometimes used as pack animals. During the Clone Wars, a female Gungan named Peppi Bow wrangled shaaks. Their scat was a popular fertilizer used by Naboo farmers on their fields.

Shaak leg was a delicacy on Pijal and they were raised as livestock for consumption by some residents of the planet Batuu.

Stats by FreddyB, Descriptive Text from WookieePedia.
Image copyright LucasArts.

Any complaints, writs for copyright abuse, etc should be addressed to the Webmaster FreddyB.